

AUTO FLIPS, BURNS ON TURNPIKE

L. Bucks Couple Killed

A Lower Makefield college professor and his artist wife were killed last night in a flaming one-car accident on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Dead are Dr. Paul J. Katz, 36, and his wife, Marilyn, 35, of 6 Fairway Drive, parents of four children. The accident happened at 11:40 p.m.

"Burned To Tire Rims"

The two were pronounced dead at 12:25 a.m. today but were not identified until later this morning. State Police Trooper Joseph Monville of the Everett Barracks said their Renault was "burned to the tire rims."

The couple has four children, Bruce, 12; Allison, 11; Eric, 9; and Wendy, 7. The two older children attend Charles H. Boehm High School, Lower Makefield, and the younger two the Makefield School.

Dr. and Mrs. Katz left the children with their grandparents in New York while Dr. Katz went to be interviewed for a new job. He had been offered a full professorship and his own department by the University of Louisville, Ky.

Associate Professor

Dr. Katz was an associate professor at Trenton State College, specializing in special education for retarded children. His wife was a talented artist and had exhibited abstract work in Yardley, New Hope and New York.

Police said the accident happened near Everett, Pa., three miles east of the Howard Johnson Restaurant at Cove Valley. The scene is 33 miles east of Bedford.

Police said Mrs. Katz was apparently driving when she lost control of the car, and the car rolled over several times. It burst into flames after it came to rest in the center of the road and was "completely engulfed in flame."

Cpl. Earl R. Allman of Everett State Police Barracks said, "They never knew what happened to them. They were probably dead by the time the car came to a rest on its roof."

Allman said both doors were thrown open and if they had been conscious they could have gotten out. Police said the car was gutted inside. Allman described it as "one of the worst" he had seen on the turnpike.

The bodies were taken to the Stuart Funeral Home, Everett. The couple was identified from contents of Mrs. Katz' purse, which along with pieces of luggage was thrown from the car.

For 2 Years

A spokesman at Trenton State College said today that Dr. Katz had been with the school for two years. The family lived in the Yardley area since last June.

Dr. Katz held a doctor of education degree which he obtained from Columbia University in 1962 in special education. He held a master's degree from Brooklyn College and his bachelor's degree in chemistry from Lafayette College.

Prior to joining Trenton State, Dr. Katz was a licensed supervisor for the Board of Education for the New York City Public Schools. He had had several articles published in education periodicals.

Special Lecturer

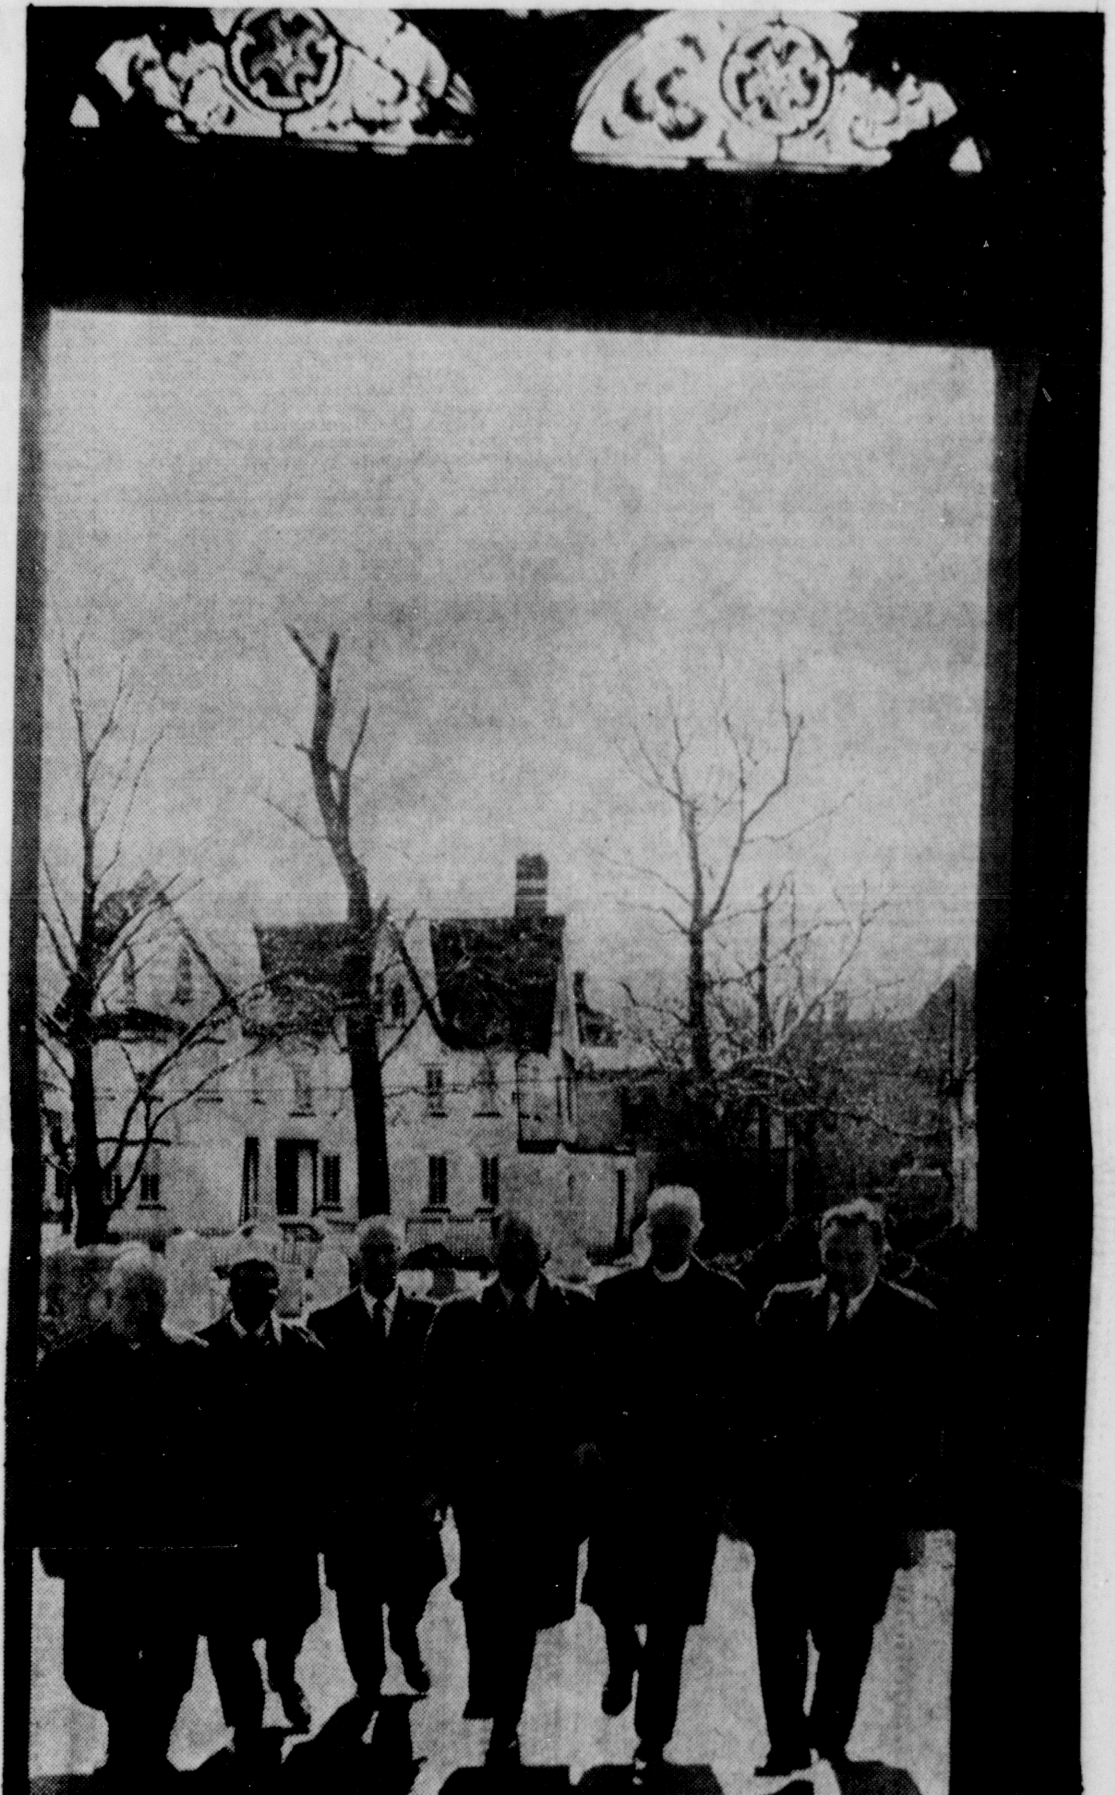

In recent years, he had been a special lecturer at Teachers College at Columbia, and from 1948 to 1961 he had worked with gifted and mentally retarded children in the N.Y.C. public schools.

In 1959 he received a National Defense Education scholarship and in 1961-62 he was a research fellow at Columbia while working on his doctor's degree.

In February, Dr. Katz and Dr. Louis Schwartz, chairman of the department of special education at Trenton State, had been invited to attend a dinner in New York at which President Johnson spoke. The affair

'Warning' Sign Doesn't Pay Off

This Car Wasn't Moving But It Got Caught In Boro Speed Trap

"Speed trap — 59 Olds" read the sign attached to the front of a car on Route 13 in Bristol Borough yesterday afternoon.

"Arrested — Obstructing a police officer in the line of duty; disorderly conduct," read the citations against the two 18-year-old Levittown youths who were in the car.

Bristol police usually give motorists a day's warning before setting up their monthly speed traps on Route 13.

Yesterday afternoon they offered no advance notice, but it, 200 yards east of where Patrolman John Tortu was working part of the police trap in his 1959 Oldsmobile.

Get Tip

Police suspected something abnormal when traffic flowed well within the 40 mile-per-hour limit. But it wasn't until a motorist tipped them of the "warning car" that they discovered parked in a conspicuous spot

In Bucks' Worst Auto Accident

Man Guilty In Crash Killing Seven

A Philadelphia man last night was convicted of seven counts of involuntary manslaughter stemming from the worst auto accident in Bucks County history.

Michael Rodgers, 21, of 7501 Boyer St., was found guilty after the Bucks jury had deliberated for four hours following the two-day trial.

Sentencing Deferred

Judge Lawrence A. Monroe deferred sentencing Rodgers pending a motion for a new trial by Robert Burke, assistant public defender. Bail was renewed at $1,000.

Seven persons, including four from one family, died as the result of a three-car accident Jan. 6, 1963, on Route 1 north of the Pennsylvania Turnpike in Bensalem Township. Police said that Rodgers car veered into the lane of oncoming traffic after leaving the northbound exit of the turnpike.

Seven Killed

Dead on arrival at Lower Bucks County Hospital were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Fidler of Middletown Township; their son, Paul, 7; Patricia Kirch, 23, of Philadelphia, a passenger in Rodgers' auto; and Paul Dor-man, 21, and Diane Russell, 19, both of Philadelphia, who were riding in the third auto. Kenneth Fidler, 15, the fourth member of the Fidler family, died two days later.

Rodgers was hospitalized for several weeks.

During the trial Rodgers maintained that he was in a diabetic coma before the accident occurred.

He testified that he had taken an insulin shot the morning of Jan. 6. Dr. Samuel B. Willard, a witness for the defense, testified that such a coma "comes very suddenly" and there was a possibility that this might have occurred in Rodgers' case.

No History

Under cross-examination, however, by Assistant District Attorney Edward G. Biester, it was established that Rodgers had no history of insulin black-outs.

Biester produced witnesses who said that it appeared Rodgers tried to get back onto the right side of the highway after his car had crossed the medial strip and into the path of oncoming traffic.

Biester maintained that Rodgers showed a disregard for human life by crossing the medial strip.

Worried About Health

Liston Is Neurotic, Says 'Manager'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Jack Nilon testified today that Sonny Liston is "neurotic" about his health. But he said the de-throned champion was fit for his title fight with Cassius Clay and should have won it.

"I still believe that Cassius Clay is no match for Sonny Liston," said Nilon, who was Liston's manager in all but name for the Miami fight.

3 Dead, 6 Lost In Boat Mishap

BOYNTON BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — A tourist fishing boat carrying 20 persons tipped over in the Boynton Inlet here today. The Coast Guard reported at least three bodies were recovered and six persons were missing.

He said Liston, after "dogging it" through pre-fight training, "was not in the condition he should have been in."

Liston's personality and the financial arrangements for the title fight figured in Nilon's testimony before the Senate antitrust subcommittee. The subcommittee is considering legislation to regulate boxing promotions.

Subcommittee Chairman Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., asked Nilon about the circumstances under which Liston failed to answer the bell for the seventh round because of an arm injury and thus lost his heavyweight title to Clay in a stunning upset.

"Sonny Liston, in my opinion you could almost say is a neurotic," Nilon said, recalling that Liston might have "broken a leg" after he stepped on a stone in Las Vegas and "in Florida, if he caught a cold he died—he was dying."

Nilon testified that he explained to Liston, in a telephone call, what Liston would be doing if he transferred part of his interest in Inter-Continental Promotions, Inc., to Sam Margolis. According to Tuesday's testimony, Liston transferred stock to Margolis which netted some $100,000 from the Clay-Liston fight.

Two others involved in the financial arrangements surrounding the Liston-Clay fight also were on the witness list. They were Nilon's brother, Robert, and Salvatore Avena of Camden, N.J., who got a piece of the money Margolis obtained from Liston.

Arrested By Falls Police

Four Six-Footers Admit Beating Boy

By PAUL ALTAIRE
Courier-Times Staff Writer

Falls Township police last night and early this morning apprehended four Philadelphia youths who admitted brutally beating a Fairless Hills teenager into unconsciousness Sunday night.

The arrest of the four, all six-footers, followed a police telephone check in Harrisburg on the license number of their car which witnesses observed as they sped away.

The victim of the assault, Bernard Hentz, 16, of 814 Austin Drive, was found lying on Trenton Road by a passing motorist and was taken to Helene Fuld Hospital, Trenton, with a brain concussion.

Youth Recuperating

He was released yesterday and is recuperating at his home.

Police identified the four as Dennis Kersten, 18, of 4428 Oakmont St.; Daniel Huebner, 18, of 3424 Primrose Road; Barry Fife, 17, of 3232 Friendship St.; and James McTear, 17, of 9632 Convent Ave.

Kersten and Huebner, appearing before Justice of the Peace John Melvin of Falls Township this morning said, they had been drinking Sunday night. When they saw Hentz walking along the road, they decided to pick a fight with him.

Beat Youth

Police said one of the four started an argument and another hit Hentz. Still another of the gang punched Hentz and finally all four pounced on him and beat him.

Melvin set bail at $1,000 each for Kersten and Huebner to await a further hearing.

Fife and McTear were confined to special detention facilities for juveniles, 16 and 17 years old, in Bucks County Prison.

The arrest of the four came after Falls police traced the license number to Kersten. Police said witnesses, whose names they are withholding, jotted down the number even though the car sped away without lights.

Parents Contacted

Police contacted Kersten's parents late last night and they brought their son and Fife to Falls Police Headquarters.

Kersten and Fife then implicated the others who were picked up at their homes this morning by police.

Kersten and Huebner were

Bucks County Groups Prepare To Welcome Tourists

Members of the Bucks County Historical - Tourist Commission, Fallsington, will meet with the presidents of the three county chambers of commerce on Tuesday.

Representing the chambers will be Woodrow Wehrung, president, Upper Bucks; William O.

Kline, president, Central Bucks; David Johnson, president, Lower Bucks; and George Schaffer, director, Lower Bucks.

Topics of discussion will include Governor Scranton's proclamation of March as "Tourist Preparation Month," and plans of the Bucks County Historical Tourist Commission to prepare for the arrival of tourists during the spring.

World's Fair

Emphasis will be placed on the importance of the New York World's Fair presents for attracting visitors on their way to and from the fair. Plans to coincide with the chambers' and other organizations' programs and goals for Bucks County in attracting the tourist dollar will be discussed.

Since the increasingly popular "Highways of History" tour folders were first printed in three sections in 1960, 660,465 have been distributed through county and state agencies, chambers of commerce, turnpike exits and information booths, all kinds of business places and civic organizations as well as motels and hotels.

To emphasize the county's important historical sites, the Commission has erected 49 markers and 19 more will be placed this spring. The new tour folders and the site markers were first introduced by the commission at its covered bridge booth at the 1963 Travel Show in Philadelphia and at the Quakertown Fair.

Traffic Increasing

"The stimulation of interest in Bucks County through publicity and the Highways of History tours is reflected in the constantly increasing attendance at historic sites, shops, and the ever mounting flow of traffic into the county," a spokesman said.

Last year the commission received 4,144 written requests for information about the county and its various attractions as against 2,390 in 1962. Besides queries from local areas, they also came from 45 states, including Hawaii, and 10 foreign countries.

Members of the commission gave 28 talks to approximately 2,500 listeners. Press releases featuring seasonal events such as the display of autumn foliage, Christmas activities, folklore, historical characters and covered bridges were sent to 117 newspapers, radio stations and individual columnists.

MacArthur Takes Food

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur was able to take a small amount of solid food orally today as he continued to progress satisfactorily from serious surgery.

A medical bulletin at about 10:30 a.m. EST from Walter Reed Army Medical Center announced that "a small amount of food by mouth was started today." Since the Monday operation, the 84-year-old general had been fed glucose and a saline solution intravenously.

A hospital spokesman said that MacArthur's ability to consume even a small amount of food so soon after surgery showed "very fine" progress.

The recovery of the venerable military hero from his second major operation in 18 days continued to amaze his doctors.

A bulletin issued at 9 a. m. EST said:

"General MacArthur continues to progress satisfactorily, indicating a better than average post-operative course. "He is alert and conversing."

MacArthur underwent a six-hour operation Monday to halt severe internal bleeding while recovering from a previous critical operation for jaundice on March 6.

Now, as after the earlier operation, his doctors indicated they were impressed with the tough battle back he is waging for a man of his age.

He came out of a long period of anesthesia early Tuesday but was kept under sedation.

Groundbreaking Ceremony

The Bucks County Water and Sewer Authority got its first phase of the Southwest Region Water Supply System on the ground yesterday with groundbreaking ceremonies held in Trevoe. Attending were (from left) William Thomas, Bucks County Water and Sewer Authority secretary and chairman for the ceremony; A. J. Caruso, envoy for Gov. William

Scranton; Warren C. $1,000,000 Water Project Started For Two Townships

Bucks County Water and Sewer Authority held groundbreaking ceremonies yesterday for a $1,000,000 water project for Bensalem and Lower Southampton Townships — the first phase of the authority's $7,000,000 Southwest Region Water Supply System.

The ceremony was held near Street and Brownsville Roads, Trevoe, on the borderline of the two townships.

The project mainly consists of two water lines that will be laid along Street and Brownsville Roads and a water storage tank that will be located nearby.

Construction is expected to be completed within 200 days.

The event was attended by a host of state, county and township officials, including A. J. Caruso, an envoy for Gov. William Scranton.

The project is being constructed by James Julian Inc., Chicago Bridge and Iron Co., G. Russell, Miller and Son, Inc., and Cheltenham Contracting Company. It will be financed partially by a $430,000 Federal grant.

Water for the townships will be purchased from the Philadelphia Suburban Water Company. However, the whole Southwest Region Water Supply System will have its own filtration plant, a network of transmission and distribution mains, and necessary water storage tanks and pumping stations.

The county system eventually will serve Bensalem, Lower Southampton and Middletown Townships.

Talking To Lillian

Detective Admits No Warrant For Lil

POTTSVILLE, Pa. (UPI) — A Philadelphia detective testified today at Lillian Reis's second burglary trial that he did not have a warrant when he arrested the former showgirl at her Celebrity Room nightclub in April, 1960.

Det. Joseph Capone, a member of Capt. Clarence J. Ferguson's Special Investigation Squad, said he was acting under orders from Ferguson.

Another witness, Rene DiSimone, a former Philadelphia policewoman who was with Capone and traveled with police and Miss Reis to Reading state police barracks, said Miss Reis did not appear upset at her arrest.

She said the only complaint from the suspect was that she was cold and hungry during the ride from Reading, where she was interrogated, to Pottsville where she was held at a hearing.

Miss DiSimone said police stopped enroute and brought coffee to Miss Reis.

Before testimony began defense attorney Robert Simone remanded Judge Charles Staudenmeier that he had issued a subpoena for Clyde (Bing) Miller to bring his tax record to court.

The jurist then directed Miller to make an effort over the weekend to roundup his returns for the years 1953 through 1959.

Court Debating On Salingor

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Pierre Salingor's campaign for the U.S. Senate entered a critical phase today with the California Supreme Court debating whether his name should appear on the June primary ballot.

An attorney for the former White House press secretary petitioned the state's highest court for a writ of mandate Tuesday after Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan refused to certify Salingor's candidacy.

KOs Revised Budget

Neshaminy OKs Teacher Pay Raises

By JIM RUARK
Courier-Times Staff Writer

The Neshaminy Joint School Board last night fought another battle in its struggle to keep down the rising costs of public education as it refused to adopt a revised budget of $6,152,000.

The new proposal was submitted by the administration after the board last month put a $6 million ceiling on the 1964 budget. The administration's first proposal in January was $6,480,000.

Further Study
The decision to send the revised budget back to committee for further study came minutes after the board by a slim 16-14 vote approved an additional $28,052 for teaching salaries over the first budget request.

The $28,052 is expected to remove some "inequities" in the original proposal which had been opposed by the Neshaminy Education Association, the district teachers' organization.

The teaching salary minimum will be raised from $4,250 to $4,950. The additional sum approved last night will restore permanent $100 increments to teachers who will obtain blocks of graduate credits before July 1. The original plan was to eliminate these $100 increments after July, 1965.

Not Specific
The $28,052 also will provide a raise for second-year teachers. The first plan had been to keep them at $4,950. The raise would probably be for $100, but it was not made specific last night.

The close vote in favor of these increases came on a motion by the majority of the salary and personnel committee. All seven Middletown board members voted in favor of the motion, while the remaining nine votes in favor were scattered among the other five boards.

Key Vote
Lawrence Levinson of Middletown perhaps held the key vote last night. At the Middletown board meeting last week, he opposed the new plan. He said last night that one reason for changing his vote in favor is that he felt the joint board is "morally obligated" to give $100 increments to teachers who worked for graduate credit, thinking they would be paid for it.

Howard Martin of Hulmeville voted to adopt the administration's revised figure of $6,152,000 plus the $28,052 for teaching salaries. However, M. L. "Pete" Madway of Middletown successfully introduced a motion to table it and send the budget back to committees for more possible cuts.

Will Revert
The final budget will not be approved for at least 60 days, since Solicitor Myron Harris said it should be readjusted at the new figure.

The board is still at conflict

"That boy could make anything from a pin to a locomotive."

It's a simple eulogy, but one of sincere tribute.

The "boy" referred to is Alexander Conca, who died March 13 at the age of 62, with four decades behind him as one of the most talented machinists in Bristol.

Obviously, only a townsman in the senior citizen age bracket could refer to a 62-year-old as a "boy." In this case, the senior citizen is Livingston Joyce, former borough engineer, now retired.

During his 50 years' service, Joyce came to know Mr. Conca well, and grew to respect him highly for his ability. Many and exacting were the jobs the late machinist did for the borough.

"If anything could be made," Joyce reflected, "Alex took it and made it."

One of Mr. Conca's most noteworthy accomplishments was the development of a tricky loading mechanism for a Lower Bucks flare manufacturing firm. The company reportedly had two professionally trained engineers working on the problem for months without success.

Mr. Conca was asked to give it a try and accepted the challenge. His initial mechanism was described as "a real Rubie Goldberg sort of thing." But it worked. Eventually he refined it to the point that it is still in use.

This was just one of a number of his "inventions." But he never bothered to patent any of them. He wasn't interested in the profit angle; the satisfaction of succeeding where success seemed remote was reward enough for him.

Although his natural mechanical aptitude was always there, it apparently was not inherited from his dad. The father was a shepherd in Italy and a seed farmer for the Landreth Seed Company (formerly holder of a large tract where Levittown now stands) after coming to this country in 1887.

Young Alex had no formal education. At the age of 14 he took a job as an apprentice in the S.B. Ardrey & Sons machine shop on Pond St. There he developed his knowledge and ability, and eventually he purchased the shop in 1943.

But death has not ended the Alex Conca machinist tradition. A visit to the same shop on Pond St. will reveal it still being operated by Alex Conca — Junior—who has the advantage of having learned from his father in addition to having the benefit of a formal education.

Soviet Mum On 2 Fliers

BERLIN (UPI)—U.S. officials still had no word from the Russians today on the whereabouts of two American fliers whose imminent release from East Germany was announced three days ago.

The airmen were taken prisoner when their RB66 jet reconnaissance bomber was shot down by a Soviet fighter plane March 10 after straying into East Germany. A third crewman, who was injured the crash, was released Saturday.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk announced in Washington Sunday that the two men would be released "in the very nearest future."

His statement was based on a telephone call from Anatoly F. Dobrynin, Soviet ambassador to the United States.

The two men held by the Russians were Capt. David I. Holland, 35, of Holland, Minn., and Capt. Melvin J. Kessler, 30, of Philadelphia.

Student Hurt In Print Shop

A Delhaas High School student was seriously injured yesterday afternoon while working in the school's print shop.

John Hartman Jr., 16, of 3207 Dixon Ave., West Bristol, got his right hand caught in a press at 3:20 p.m. He was taken to Delaware Valley Hospital, Bristol, by the Bucks County Rescue Squad. The boy is to undergo an operation on the hand today.

He is the son of John V. Hartman, Bristol Township animal control officer.

Found Ad Gets Results

A found ad in the Courier - Times Classified Department led Sgt. Gene Ashton of Bensalem Township Police to recover a mink stole taken from the home of Mrs. Josephine Reda, 837 State Road, Cornwells Heights, on March 14.

Raymond Harbacz, Cornwells Heights, a highway employee, found the stole on March 19 along Trenton Road in Middletown Township and inserted the ad in the Courier-Times on March 20.

Sgt. Ashton is a regular reader of the found ads because, he explained, they are possible sources of locating discarded loot.

Found ads are published by the Courier-Times free of charge.

Police Seeking Liquor Thieves

Bristol Township police are seeking juveniles believed to have broken into a Levittown home yesterday and taking a bottle of liquor and a bottle of wine.

The theft occurred between 7 and 8:15 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carroll, 16 Crescent Lane, Crabtree Hollow.

Detective William Edmond is investigating.

Groom Uses Bible To Skip Jury Duty

HOUSTON (UPI) — Newlywed Clyde Nathan Williams of Houston used a Bible quotation yesterday to be excused from a week of jury duty.

The quotation, from Deuteronomy 24:5:

"When a man hath taken a new wife, he shall not go out to war, neither shall he be charged with any business; but he shall be free at home one year and shall cheer up his wife which he hath taken."

Judge Arnold Krichamer checked the passage in the Bible and sent Williams home to his wife.

Government Regulation

Falls Chairman Asks Controls For Squads

Milton Berkes, chairman of the Falls Township supervisors, said today he is investigating the possibility of governmental regulation of rescue squads.

He said he is writing to the county's four representatives in Harrisburg, recommending legislative action.

Berkes' action is the outgrowth of a March 10 incident in which the Delaware Valley Rescue Squad kept an injured woman waiting in its ambulance while rescuers sought to free a second woman trapped in her car. A Levittown-Fairless Hills ambulance was at the scene during the freeing operation but was not utilized.

Calling Order

The board of supervisors subsequently issued an order to the Falls Police Department to call the Levittown - Fairless Hills Squad to an accident before calling the Delaware Valley Squad.

"The public is entitled to the security of knowing that when a rescue squad is called, the call will be answered promptly and efficiently," Berkes said. He said also that a squad should be required to have personnel properly trained in rescue work and equipment in good working order.

"Anything less than this cannot be tolerated," he said.
